now seems likely, owing to the Repub-licans having come to the conclusion that the Democrats have practically bound themselves to support the Wil-

bound themselves to support the VIIllams bill.

It is most noticeable that the White House has not fulminated, for the Aldrich bill. The utmost assurance anybody has been able to give regarding the attitude of the President is that the will sign the bill if it rereives the approval of a majority of each House.
He has hesitated to inderse a measure which its opponents claim to be framed in the interest of the "wealthy malefactors," and "predatory wealth" generally. If it should be shown this summer and fall, as the presidential campaign progresses, that the country takes this view of the measure, which will have been put on the statute books by that time, the President will be in position to remind the country that he never advocated the passage of the iniquitous law.

During Senator Stone's advocacy of the plan for government guarantees of deposits in national banks. Senator Broon, of Georgia, took occasion to oppose that proposition at some length.
Mr. Bacon declared that if such a plan were put into effect State banks would be put out of business, as their deposits would find their way into national banks.

wish to let his buyer know whether the barrel contains rye or Bourbon whiskey is prohibited from so marking the barrel. The manufacturer of wine is allowed to mark the cask "wine." but he is not allowed to further mark it so as to indicate whether the said wine is even made from grape, much less whether from Delaware or Catawha or Concord. The decision, taken all in all, is one of the most remarkable over rendered by a somewhit remarkable Attorney-General. Representative Johnson will introduce a bill to amend the pure-food law so as to admit of the toper who knows whether he wants rye or Bourbon whiskey, or peach or apple or grape brandy, being sure he gets his preference. Under the present decision even the barkeeper will not be certain whether he is serving rye or corn or peach or applict.

Pneumonia Following Grip

Doctors Say Pneumonia Is Most Likely to Follow the Grip if Neglected.

The after-developments of the grip, if the disease is neglected, include pneumonia, and are so serious no victim of the grip should fail of prompt and careful attention. The best thing for every man, woman and child to do in an attack of the grip is to go to bed and get warm at once, take a cathartic—the hest is Hood's Pills—for a free movement of the bowels, and counters at the new cruiser North Carolina.
